LEGOLAND® Pirates

Sometime in the 18th century, there lived a colony of settlers who peacefully thrived by means of the buried treasure they had discovered on their new island home.

But they were not the only ones who knew of this gold. Captain Redbeard, leader of the infamous LEGOLAND® Pirates of the Sea and commander of the Black Seas Barracuda pirate ship had his claim. The gold had belonged to his ancestors and he vowed to take back what he believed was rightly his.

Captain Redbeard was legendary. Over the years, many captains came and went. Names such as Foul, Ironhook and Brickbeard, but none could strike fear into the Imperials and rally the pirates like Redbeard. And so, as the settlers slept, Redbeard gathered his fellow pirates, loaded his cannons and set sail for Eldorado Fortress. He and his sailors charted tornado-like storms and battled wind-whipped waters. However, as the sun came up and the winds stopped whistling, there was no sign of Redbeard or his shipmates. No storming pirates woke the settlers from their beds and no ship stirred the horizon. Not that morning, and not ever again.

Many years went by and although Redbeard and his crew never returned, tales of the captain lived on in tavern whispers. Some said he was seen off the coast of Treasure Island, others heard he was locked away in Eldorado Fortress. Many believed he had been taken by the sea. But recently a new rumor abounds...

A rumor of a strange island... an island inhabited by graying pirates and built with the wreckage of an old ship. Who knows what's true and what's false, but beware regardless - if you listen to the whistling winds of the sea at night, you might just hear the words... Barracuda, Barracuda, Barracuda...

Now it's up to you and your imagination to continue the adventures...

Plunder New Lands with Pablo

I am Pablo Sánchez:
I live in Madrid and this is my Pirates of Barracuda Bay creation.

My love for LEGO® bricks was passed down to me as a child from my father.

After the Spanish Civil War, my dad worked as a craftsman, making dolls. When I came along, he saw LEGO bricks as a chance to give me something he had never had, a chance to make toys and create a world of play that was just for me. We would play pirates together and that's where his nickname for me,
"Little Pirate" came from.

It's been almost thirty years since the Classic Pirates were released, so I decided I had to help bring them back.

This set was for my dad, for myself and for all the other boys and girls who grew up playing pirates.

I started where the story left off in 1989, with Captain Redbeard and his crew, stranded mid-adventure.

That's when I remembered the sequence from a classic pirate film, where the crew happen upon an island made from shipwrecks. I started to experiment with that idea, scaling the concept down and adding in details such as plants, animals, hidden traps and spaces, and bountiful treasures.

The project took me one very sleepless week to design and another to create it digitally.

In the end, it was made up of around 2650 individual pieces. After I had submitted the work to the LEGO® Ideas platform, I was overwhelmed by the avalanche of support I received. Within 25 days, I hit the big 10,000.

My hope for this set is that it helps to create a new generation of "little pirates."

I hope it starts a new era of boys and girls who get as much joy from the adventures of Redbeard as I did.

Meet Matey Milan

My name is Milan Madge. I'm originally from the UK and I'm a Model Designer at the LEGO Group in Denmark.

It was amazing to help bring Pablo's vision to life and to help add that little bit of LEGO® magic – especially because it was so clear from his storytelling that the theme meant a lot to him.

It wasn't all smooth sailing. Parts such as raised baseplates, boat hulls, masts, palm trees and monkeys were out of production, some since the 1990s!

Released in 1989, the original sets kickstarted a new way of playing and storytelling within the LEGO Group, but, the beloved Captain Redbeard and his crew had been missing ever since we knew him as kids.

We wanted to tell the next chapter of his story and get these characters back in the hands of those same kids, 30 years later. Our aim was to keep the great stories Pablo had created, the jail cell, the inn, the farm, the Captain's cabin, but replace the structures with the remains of Captain Redbeard's ship. The characters would resemble the crew that left us in the 1990s, albeit with a little gray in their beards.

Deciding that the model should be able to change back into a seaworthy vessel posed a real challenge, but it had to be done. After all, what are pirates without a ship?

I remember how happy Pablo was when we first showed him the concept, and I can imagine how happy others will be when they see Captain Redbeard and the Black Seas Barracuda coming to life again.

Say 'Aye, Aye' to Austin

I'm Austin William Carlson. I'm originally from Pennsylvania, USA and I am a Minifigure Designer for the LEGO Group.

When I heard about Pirates of Barracuda Bay becoming a possible LEGO® Ideas set, there was no way I was going to miss out on working on such an inspired classic model - Pirate Bay was my JAM as a child! After all, Captain Redbeard and I were both released in 1989, although his beard was better than mine.

Having the chance to tell a new story with the characters that I grew up with really was a dream come true.

From the submission to the final development, there were lots of designers whose eyes lit up from working on this project. It reignited a magical world here and I really believe it will do the same for LEGO fans everywhere.

Captain Redbeard

Captain Redbeard

Captain Redbeard was once captain of the great ship Black Seas Barracuda. An infamous pirate, Redbeard and his crew sailed the seas from Rock Island Refuge in search of treasures stolen by the mighty Imperials.

Feared by his enemies and admired by his friends, Redbeard was a legend among all sea-faring folk. A pirate pioneer, Redbeard paved the way for the pirates who came after him. It was said that Long John Silver stole his wooden leg idea, Captain Hook copied his missing hand and Blackbeard was inspired by his lustrous beard.

Crew

Lady Anchor

Lady Anne Anchor was one heavy-hitting swash-buckler. She kept the crew at bay, held things down and made sure everything was ship-shape when Redbeard was at sea.

Quartermaster Riggings

A close confidant to the Captain, Riggings was the only other member of the crew to be trusted with the location of the treasure and always sees eye-to-eye with the Captain (because their patches are on opposite sides...)

Robin Loot

Former gunner of the Cross-Bone Clipper ship. The definition of a loose cannon.

Port

One of the Broadside Brothers. Joined the crew at Rock Island Refuge. Magnificent moustache, marooned regularly.

Starboard

The other Broadside Brother. Shared his love of face furniture with his brother but lets himself down with his cooking.

Tattooga

Master craftsman with extraordinary strength. Rumor has it, he once beat a shark in an arm-wrestling contest.

Jack "Dark Shark" Doubloons

The bosun of the ship, Jack Doubloons made sure everything was rigged out and above board.
